

Having a blood test

Please be aware this document contains photographs of blood being taken

Bloods tests can be done by a nurse or a doctor or a special worker called a phlebotomist.

Having your blood tested can tell the doctors if you are poorly.

Blood tests are usually taken from your arm.

This is what we will use to take your blood.

The nurse or doctor will be wearing gloves.

The nurse will ask you your birthday and tell you what is going to happen.

If you are scared of needles please tell the nurse.

The nurse or doctor will put a band around your arm.

This might feel tight.

The nurse or doctor will clean your skin.

You might be asked to make a fist with your hand.

The nurse or doctor will put a needle in your arm.

This might sting a little.

You will be asked to stay still.

You can look away if you want.

Your blood will flow in to the needle and be collected in a special bottle.

The band will be taken off your arm.

The nurse or the doctor will take the needle out of your arm.

They will put some cotton wool on your arm.

The nurse or doctor might put a plaster on your arm.

The nurse or doctor will tell you when the blood test is finished.

The results will be sent to your doctor who will explain them to you.

Reference Number: ULHT-LFT-1045

Issued: October 2023

Review Date: October 2025

Version: 2

References

If you require a full list of references for this leaflet please email patient.information@ulh.nhs.uk

United Lincolnshire Hospitals NHS Trust endeavours to ensure that the information given here is accurate and impartial.

If you require this information in another language, large print, audio or braille, please email the Patient Information team at patient.information@ulh.nhs.uk

www.ulh.nhs.uk

