I am Dr Ravi Sant your Guardian of Safe Working

I have taken over this responsibility from my colleague, Dr. Manish Chablani, who has done an excellent job in looking after your wellbeing over the last five years, particularly during and after the difficult period of COVID-19 pandemic.

The pandemic has significantly changed the equation of delivery of primary as well as secondary care for our patients. It has put added strain on the well-being of our resident doctors and we at ULTH appreciate the hard work our resident doctors are doing every day.

My role as the Guardian of Safe Working is to reassure the resident doctors and employers that the resident doctors' rotas and working conditions are safe for the doctors and patients. I will oversee the work schedule review process and address any concerns about working extended hours, missing breaks, missing training opportunities, etc. I will always support delivery of safe care to our patients by taking appropriate measures to prevent junior doctors from working extended hours. I will do everything in my power, including levying financial penalties when safe working hours are breached.

Please feel free to write to me or Dawn Marriott, the Guardian of Safe Working Officer, if you have any concerns or want to discuss about anything. We are your advocates and always happy to help!
